

barbican

An illustration of a tropical conservatory at night. The scene is set against a dark blue background with vertical red lines and small white stars. In the foreground, a group of people in formal attire are socializing. A woman in a blue dress holds a martini glass. To the left, a large green plant with yellow spots is visible. In the background, there are brown, tiered structures resembling balconies or planters, with yellow lights hanging from them. A yellow circular light is visible on the right side.
